Musikermedizin

Musicians are often exposed to extreme challenges, which can have an impact on their physical health - just like high-performance athletes.

Therefore, special examination and treatment is required.

As a hobby musician and competitive athlete, I have specialized in this area. I understand the unique challenges musicians face every day.

Whether you are a pianist, guitarist, drummer or string player, it is important that your hands are in top shape to fulfill your musical potential.

Contact me and together we will find the best solution so that you can fully live your musical passion again without restrictions!
